

NISE 2022: Call for Presentations (CFP)

NISE 2022: Back to Science

Northern Illinois Science Educators (NISE) is pleased to invite you to present at our annual conference, NISE 2022: Back to Science, on Monday, November 14, 2022 at the NIU Conference Center in Naperville, IL. All K-16 science educators and exhibitors are invited to submit a proposal to present. Our goal is to bring science educators together to collaborate and share ideas and methods for best practices in science education.

FAQs:

- * Please plan your presentation to be around 40 minutes in length and plan for additional 5-10 minutes for questions. The last ten minutes is for take down and set up for the next presenter. Presentations will start each hour.
- * All presentation rooms will have a projector and a computer with Internet and MS Office. A VGA connection is available for connecting your own device if you choose to bring one.
- * Attendees will have Internet access.
- * Cost for presenters and attendees will be $180.00. Each presentation (presenter / group) will receive a token of appreciation for presenting.
- * More information about the conference, types of presentations, and conference threads at <http://www.nise.us>
- * Please visit our website (link below) to learn more about the conference and presenting:

<http://www.nise.us/conf-2022-cfp.html> (Deadline: Oct 2, 2022)

If you have questions or comments, email us at: conference@nise.us

About Northern Illinois Science Educators (NISE)

Since the adoption of the Next Generation Science Standards in Illinois, science teachers and administrators are facing significant changes to curriculum, instruction, and assessment. There is a great need for science teachers to be able to share resources and materials unique to northern Illinois.

The primary focus of Northern Illinois Science Educators (NISE) is to work with science educators in urban/suburban areas in and around Chicago. NISE is focused on providing professional development opportunities for pre-kindergarten to post-secondary science educators in northern Illinois through workshops and conferences. Additionally, the NISE leadership will disseminate news and information related to K-16 science education through newsletters and website about our workshops and conferences.

NISE is a National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) Associated Group!

Please save the date and plan to join us at our annual conference on Monday, November 14, 2022 at the NIU Conference Center in Naperville!